

Team Azumano

AIDSWalk

When Sho Dozono, Azumano Travel president and chief executive officer, was asked by the Cascade AIDS Project to join Mayor Vera Katz as an honorary co-chair for the AIDSWalk03, he thought about the ways in which together we could truly make a difference.

As an AIDSWalk03 honorary co-chair, one of Sho's goals was to ask local corporate leaders to make a public statement he had made within his Azumano family; first by joining him in walking and second, by making efforts to become more comfortable in talking about HIV/AIDS within their companies.

For every year since then, Azumano employees have organized a team to participate in the community's annual AIDSWalk, following Sho's lead to help eradicate this disease and to promote corporate cultures where employees aren't afraid, ashamed or stigmatized from sharing something like HIV or AIDS that so dramatically impacts their lives.
